PEAK RESIDENTIAL TRIPS

Hello! I'm Kait, the Centre Manager at Chasewater Activity Centre.

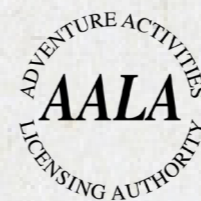

With a degree in SEND and over 20 years' experience in outdoor education, I genuinely believe in Education through Adventure. Learning is improved when young people step out of their comfort zones, embrace new challenges, and learn through real experiences.

Our residential programmes are designed to help young people build confidence, resilience, teamwork, leadership, and independence — skills they can rely on after the adventure ends.

Why Peak?

Transformative Learning, Beyond the Classroom

At Peak, we focus on developing behavioural skills that empower young people to grow into confident, capable individuals. Through practical challenges, they will develop resilience, communication, and leadership — encouraging traits that will help them thrive in school and life. It's not just about the adventure; it's about preparing young people for the future.

A TRIP TO REMEMBER

Why Peak?

What's in it for your young people?

Making Memories and Having Fun

From outdoor activities such as canoeing, rock climbing, bushcraft, and team games, to socialising in a safe, supportive environment, your young people can create memories that last a lifetime. The friendships they make and the experiences they have will stay with them forever.

Real Adventures, Real Growth

Our residential programme gives young people a chance to step outside of familiar territory, face challenges, and develop the skills and confidence they need to succeed and reach their Peak.

Building Confidence and Resilience

Through immersive activities, young people will face challenges that push them to grow. Whether it's leading a team, learning a new skill, or even helping each other make their beds, each task is an opportunity to reduce barriers and build confidence. By stepping up to challenges, they'll discover just how capable they are.

Teamwork and Leadership

Your young people will work together to accomplish shared goals, learning how to communicate, collaborate, and lead. These skills are vital both in school and in their futures. By the end of their time with us, they'll leave with a stronger sense of personal responsibility and the confidence to lead others.

Developing Lifelong Skills

Whether it's navigating a course, solving problems under pressure, or working as a team, the activities we provide support young people to develop vital skills: critical thinking, communication, and adaptability.

A Safe, Supportive Environment

You'll always be in good hands. With our experienced, first-aid-trained staff and strong safety practices, we ensure every adventure is both fun and secure. This allows young people the freedom to explore new activities, take risks, and build self-confidence in a supportive, encouraging setting.
